

San Francisco

CITY MAIN

MUSIC & NIGHTLIFE

DINING GUIDE

MOVIE GUIDE

TRAVEL INFO

YELLOW PAGES

SHOP & FIND

NEWS & SPORTS

PEOPLE

Insect Songs ✓ Pick Editor's Pick

Insects come to life with Sandi and Stevie.

Overview

Event Schedule

Insect Songs

- Next: 12/27, Noon and 1:15PM;

Lawrence Hall of Science Map

Centennial Drive #5200

University of California Berkeley Campus

Berkeley, CA 94720

510-642-5132

- Click here for a complete schedule

Sandi and Stevie are two humans who like to dress up like insects. But before you lock your windows and haul out the Bug-Off, think about bringing your children (ages 2-7) to one of Sandi and Stevie's live performances of 'Insect Songs.' The entertainers have written a number of humorous and informative ditties about insects, such as 'Sandra the Spider,' which begins:

I'm Sandra the spider
I want a bug for tea
I'm looking for a fat insect
To take him home with me
I've spun a web symmetrically
I've used my special weave
He'll be relaxed and he won't know
That I won't let him leave...'

Sandi and Stevie introduce each song by talking a little about the particular insect, and then start singing, with kids in the audience encouraged to jump around and join in the fun, zooming around like a greedy wasp and hopping like a green grasshopper (yes, that's Stevie pictured about with the green, er, hair). When the show is over, parents can purchase and take home a CD with all the songs included and discover the ladyworm's peculiar secret as well as the gypsy moth's particular problem. Warning: kids get very attached to these songs. You'll get to know them well. -- Doug Konecky

Arts & Culture: Music

Music: Children's

Family: Children

Phone Number: 925-743-9838

Kid-friendly

Official Web Site www.insectsongs.com

